Biography

Singer-songwriter Bo Napoleon has been on the rise in the music industry, it started back in 2010 when he wrote "Alcoholic" and "Wade in your water" for the band Common Kings. This launched their career (opening for Justin Timberlake) as well as Napoleon's songwriting career. His island style songwriting connects with his Hawaiian roots, yet also transcends other styles of music including R & B, Top 40, Hip Hop and pop. Following Common Kings hit singles spawned new life to other hits for Napoleon as a solo artist such as; "Born and Raised", "If that's ok", "Rastaman", and "Nice to see you trying" just to name a few. Napoleon's singles have been on heavy rotation in Hawai'i such as KDDN-FM iHeartmedia, KPHW Power 104FM, and Island 98.5FM. Napoleon's Spotify page has over 200K followers with "If that's ok" surpassing 6 million streams.

"It is easy to recognize how Bo's wide pallet of music and unique writing ability has molded him into one of the special singer-songwriters that can resonate with the masses." Vents Magazine
